ATLANTA (October 6, 2006) — Figo Pasta restaurants will host the Atlanta Community Food Bank's monthly dining event, Supper Club, on Tuesday, Nov. 15, 2006. Supper Club is a special event that provides an opportunity for Metro Atlanta to dine out once a month at specially selected restaurants, while 20 percent of the evening's proceeds benefit the prepared food rescue project of the Food Bank, Atlanta's Table.

Executive Chefs and owners, Mirko di Giacomantonio and Sandro Romagnoli bring a shared passion to their menu by offering authentic Italian cuisine. Their focus is to create a fun, comfortable, enjoyable experience for their customers where the mind, body, and soul are nourished.

Figo offers a variety of fifteen fresh pastas and eleven different sauces that are made from scratch daily. Guests can mix and match their favorite combinations creating an endless selection. An array of wines compliments the specialty gourmet fare. Chef specialties include Rigatoni Bolognese, Penne Amatriciana, Ricotta and Spinach with Checca Sauce and Zucca (butternut squash ravioli with radicchio and mascarpone sauce).

Hours of operation vary by location, and reservations are not required. For additional information, visit www.figopasta.com. To receive a monthly invite to Supper Club, visit www.ACFB.org/events/supper_club.

Supper Club was created informally in the late 1990s to celebrate the partnership between Atlanta's Table and Atlanta's hospitality community. Atlanta's Table, a project of the Food Bank, provides approximately 40,000 pounds of prepared food to Atlanta's hungry each month. Supper Club allows diners the convenience to enjoy meals at some of Atlanta's hottest restaurants while supporting their community.

With sponsorship from Ethic Inc., Jezebel magazine, TrendCRM, and 92.9 dave fm, Atlanta's Table Supper Club generates funds to ensure continued operations of the project. For more information about Supper Club, visit www.ACFB.org, or contact Daphne Hill at 678-553-5996 or daphne.hill@ACFB.org.
