THE FOOD BANK

Thanks to tremendous community partners, including farmers, grocers, volunteers, donors and friends, we've continued to grow the reach and impact of the Food Bank into the 29 counties and hundreds of communities we serve.

This year's report shares snapshots of lives changed by Feeding a Greater Atlanta and North Georgia – because of your help.

We also highlight the diversity of programs we bring to working families, children and seniors who struggle to put food on their tables.

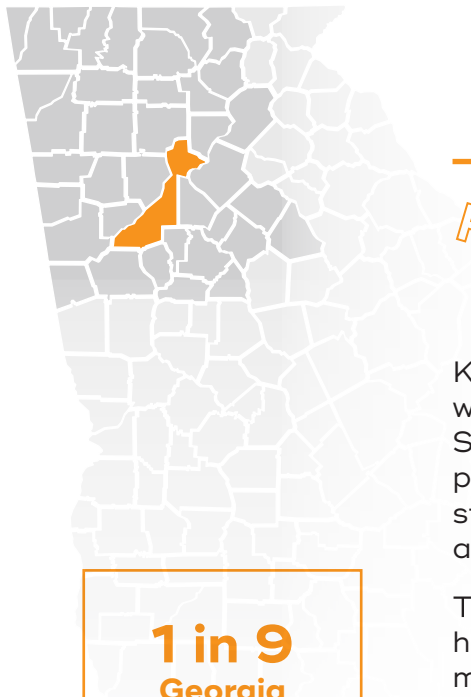

With your help, more than 59.5 million meals reached our neighbors last year.

Thank you for your generosity.

Our mission is to FIGHT HUNGER

by engaging, educating and empowering our community.

seniors live
in poverty

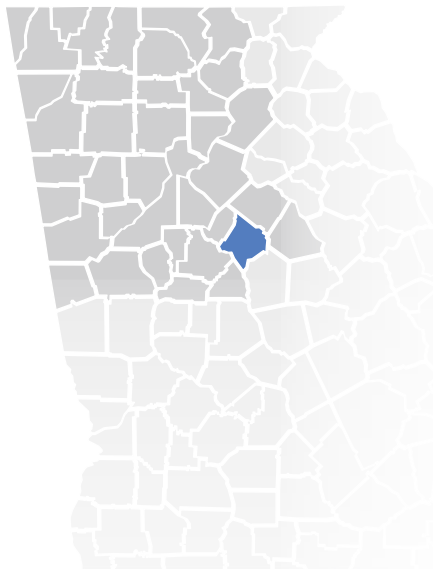

Kenneth is one of the 3,716 seniors who participate in the Commodity Supplemental Food Program. This program provides a monthly box of pantry staples like pasta, canned vegetables and rice to help stock senior pantries.

This year, we began offering free, hands-on cooking classes to program members. They learn how to cook simple and healthy meals with the food received in their box. More than 400 seniors have prepared new recipes and fellowshipped in our Learning Kitchen.

A photograph of an older Black man with a grey beard and glasses, wearing a dark green t-shirt with a white graphic. He is smiling and looking towards the camera while cooking in a kitchen. He is using a red-handled spoon to stir something in a pot on the stove. In the background, there is a blender, a water bottle, and various kitchen items. A semi-transparent orange circle is overlaid on the right side of the image, containing text.

“It may look like
A LITTLE THING

but to a person that you give light into his mind about how to do something to take care of himself, that’s large.”

We feed hungry neighbors today, and create solutions to end hunger tomorrow. This year, we laid the groundwork for a new “Food First Pantry” model that aims to move working families from crisis to stability more quickly, and reduce their need for food assistance over time.

struggle to get enough food

We convened five partner agencies, the clients they serve, researchers from the University of Georgia and Georgia State University, and advisors from local and national organizations in the project design phase. The initial Food First Pantries will launch at two sites in 2018, with more planned in the future.

Bre and her husband Brian have three children, Nathan Brian, Makayla (pictured) and Braxton. Bre recalls a time when there never seemed to be enough. “No matter how hard we tried, we couldn’t get ahead,” said Bre, shift manager for a national fast food chain. “I didn’t want to admit we needed help, but three kids and power and water, and the bills begin to add up.”

Things improved when they began receiving groceries from Food Bank partner agency House of Hope. “They give you enough to come up with a few whole meals a week,” said Bre. “It made a difference to know that we could have spaghetti one night or chicken with all the sides, and then we would have breakfast for almost a week.”

“Our hope for THE FUTURE is to inspire others to give back.”

CHILDREN IN

OUR SERVICE AREA

1 in 4
Georgia kids don't get enough to eat

During the summer months, when school meals aren't available, many struggling children don't get enough to eat. This year, our Summer Hunger Program kicked off with events in Hapeville, Gainesville and College Park. We worked with various feeding sites across our service area to distribute over 41,000 summer meals to kids.

Our School Pantry Program thrived by distributing over 426,000 meals to families in need at 20 schools across our service area. School pantries provide an easily accessible source of nutritious food to low-income students and their families in a convenient, familiar location.

Our goal is to ENSURE CHILDREN

have access to the nutritious food they need to thrive in the classroom and beyond.

We distributed a total of 70.5 million pounds of food and grocery products last year. That's enough for 59.5 million meals!

Here's how our food and grocery products break down into categories:

With the support of our retail partners, our trucks are busy and our shelves are full! We recovered 21,063,663 pounds of food from 499 stores. This represents a 19% increase over last year. Thank you!
