Atlanta Community Food Bank Showcases Partnership with DoorDash in Fight Against Hunger

Marks 50,000 Deliveries as Part of Project DASH's 150 Million Meals Delivered Nationwide

ATLANTA (Oct. 14, 2026) – This month, the Atlanta Community Food Bank is showcasing how home delivery can break down barriers in the fight against hunger.

For many Atlanta neighbors facing hunger, the hardest part isn't finding help: it's getting to it. The Food Bank is marking more than 50,000 deliveries made directly to households of older adults and other qualifying neighbors within a 10-mile radius of the Food Bank's East Point facility, part of an estimated 150 million meals delivered nationwide by DoorDash's Project DASH.

Since 2023, the Food Bank has distributed Commodity Supplemental Food Program boxes and boxes of shelf-stable items and perishables, including fresh produce, through DoorDash's Project DASH. This delivery partnership ensures that older adults and neighbors with disabilities or who lack transportation have access to nutritious food.

"The Atlanta Community Food Bank is deeply grateful to DoorDash. This innovative program has allowed us to make more than 50,000 deliveries and keep food on the table for our neighbors with transportation issues," said Kyle Waide, president and CEO of the Atlanta Community Food Bank. "Partnerships like this and the community's support help ensure that vital programs like home delivery continue to reach neighbors facing food insecurity."

"The Atlanta Community Food Bank already knows what community members in East Point need; it's just a question of having the capacity to get the food to them," said Daniel Riff, head of global food access programs at DoorDash. "We're proud to help with the logistics so that neighbors can receive the food they need regardless of any mobility or transportation barriers they experience."

Home delivery helps ensure that the Food Bank can serve households facing transportation, mobility, or scheduling barriers, reaching households who would otherwise go without. To date, the Food Bank and Project DASH have powered 50,000 deliveries to Atlanta neighbors.

About Atlanta Community Food Bank

The Atlanta Community Food Bank works to end hunger with the food, people, and big ideas needed to ensure our neighbors have the nourishment to lead healthy and productive lives. Far too many people in our own community experience hunger every day. Through more than 700 community-based, nonprofit partners in 29 counties, we help thousands of families, children, and seniors get healthy food every year. Our goal is that all hungry people across metro Atlanta and north Georgia will have access to the nutritious meals they need when they need them. It takes the power of our whole community to make that possible. In 2023, the Atlanta Community Food Bank distributed its one billionth meal. Join us at ACFB.org.
