HUNGER QUIZ ANSWER KEY

- 1. *Hunger and food insecurity in the United States aren't urgent problems.
FALSE: As illustrated throughout this Hunger 101 Curriculum, hunger and food insecurity have many devastating consequences that impact the economy, community health, child development, educational outcomes and more.
(<http://www.hungerreport.org/costofhunger/>)
- 2. *There are more than 37 millions of people who experience hunger and food insecurity in the United States.
TRUE: 1 in 7 Americans face hunger every day across this country, including 1 in 5 children- this is more than 37 million people including more than 11 million children.
(Feeding America, USDA, 2019)
- 3. *Any person with a job should be able to feed themselves and their families.
FALSE: The cost of living varies widely across the country and access to transportation and affordable housing is not guaranteed. Wages have not kept up with the cost of living and we know that food and proper nutrition is often the first place that individuals and families make sacrifices and tradeoffs.

- 4. *Children who go to school hungry have difficulty learning.
TRUE: For children, food insecurity is particularly devastating. Not having enough healthy food can have serious implications for a child's physical and mental health, academic achievement and future economic prosperity. Research shows an association between food insecurity and delayed development in young children; risk of chronic illnesses like asthma and anemia; and behavioral problems like hyperactivity, anxiety and aggression in school-age children.

- 5. *There are both community and government responses to hunger in the United States.
TRUE: There have been community responses to hunger for centuries, but government responses to hunger in the United States didn't begin until the Great Depression when 1 in 4 people were unemployed and the situation was so dire people called for a federal response. The Atlanta Community Food Bank explores Responses to Hunger and Poverty in the U.S. in our Hunger 101 curriculum, page 16.
- 6. *All neighborhoods have equal access to nutritious and culturally appropriate food.
FALSE: Many people in the United States (rural, urban and suburban) do not live near or have access to a large grocery store. According to the USDA, in 2015, 39.4 million people (12.8%) in the U.S. lived in low-income, low access communities. In 2015, nearly 23% of Georgians lived in low-income, low access communities.

7. Food banks are a government response to hunger and food insecurity.
FALSE: Food banks and pantries are regional or community based charitable (non-governmental) organizations. Most food banks and food pantries also have official non-profit (501c3) status which helps them put resources back into their programs and services.
8. I can't do anything to address hunger issues in my community or country.
FALSE: There are many ways for people of all ages to take action and address hunger issues. You can volunteer, donate food and funds to food banks and pantries; you can raise awareness and make sure that policymakers know what hunger and food insecurity looks like in your community; you can learn about how your community responds to hunger and where you might be able to provide assistance. Can you think of other ways you can help? Commit to one action step in the next month!
9. Minimum wage jobs pay enough to afford safe housing anywhere in the United States.
FALSE: Someone earning the federal minimum wage of $7.25/hour working full time would earn $1,160/month. Fair market rent for a safe two bedroom apartment in much of metro-Atlanta is between $1,000 and $1,750 dollars. They might be able to come up with rent, but would have nothing for food and other expenses like utilities, healthcare and childcare. This creates a situation where families have to make extraordinary tradeoffs between food and housing.

10. There is enough food to feed everyone.
TRUE: World farmers produce enough food to feed 1.5x the global population (7.8 billion) and that is enough food to feed 10 billion people (the population we anticipate in 2050). That is the good news. The bad news is that well over 820 million people are food insecure around the world. "With real commitment, broader action and the right investments it is possible to address hunger globally."
